court would but show him mercy this one time.

Seated near him was Emma Hailey, his wife, who regarded his entreaties for mercy with cold disdain. Hailey promised that he would comply with almost any promises the court exacted from him. Among other things, he said he would in the future be a good husband, support his wife, quit drinking, and he probably would have been making promises yet if the court had not stopped him with a suspended sentence of ninety-nine days on the rock pile, pending good behavior. Hailey was overjoyed. He looked at his wife, but there was no joy reflected from her face. Both started from the court room about the same time. He helped her into the buggy and with a sweep of her arm she waved him aside when he attempted to take a seat beside her. With a resigned air ne prepared to make the journey back home on foot, when she took compaission on him and allowed him to sit beside her and listen to a tongue lashing which she proceeded with as they drove off.

"And in the meantime," as the colored supplement says, there was being filled in the district court an action for divorce brought by Emma Hailey against this same Thomas Hailey. In her complaint she alleges that he has treated her in a manner most outrageous ever since their marriage in Salt Lake last October. At divers times he has threatened her with bodily harm, she asserts, and accused her of unchastity, using vile language in her presence. Returned From Denver Convention, Will Push Anti-Polygamy Plank in Idaho. JUDGE FOR MERCY

Special to The Tribune.

BOISE, Ida., July 15.—The anti-Mormon Democratic delegates to the national convention at Denver have just returned home, and they appear to be in exceedingly high spirits and ready for the last round to take place at Wallace August 4. The delegates expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the results of the convention, with the exception of the failure to secure the insertion of an anti-polygany plank in the platform. However, they say it is a foregone conclusion that such a plank will be inserted in the Wallace state platform and that there will be no compromise with the representatives of the hierarchy.

The seating of the anti-Mormon delegates over the rump convention delegates was especially gratifying to those who have just returned, and they say that this alone is sufficient evidence that the jack-Mormon bolters should have little consideration in the Wallace convention. Special to The Tribune
